RICHMOND BANKS

The following are the correct figures for March, except in the case of the Southern Interstate Bank and the Bank of Commerce and Trusts. Their March statements have not yet been published, and in their cases the figures from the January statements are used. Their April figures, if obtainable, would doubtless further increase the totals.

tary, A. H. Felthaus.

The secretary submitted for the consideration of the stockholders a complete statement of the business of the company for the fiscal year ending March 21st, which showed the affairs of the company to be in a most prosperous contition, and the past year to have been the most successful in the history of the company. Among other information contained in the statement it was shown that the sales of the company for the year amounted to $2,623,718, an increase over the previous year's business of a

The business of the company is growing daily, and, in order to largely increase their facilities, a contract has been awarded to Mr. John T. Wilson for the crection of an enormous plant on their property on West Broad Street, a part of the old Fair Grounds property, and immediately adjacent to the mest four-ishing section of the city. Work on this building will be started within the next few days, and it is expected to be ready for occupancy by fall. Their new building will be "a new structure, with new devices for a new era," and will be the largest of its character in the Southern States. It has been especially designed for the conduct of the shoe business on the most economical and scientific plan. The stockholders at their meeting passed a resolution authorizing an additional

A Commercial King in the Commons.

Sir John Brunner, who celebrated his birthday the other day, is looked upon as one of the commercial kings in the House of Commons. He is head of the largest manufactory in the world, and is deeply interested in science and education generally. He rivals Mr. Carnegle in the number of free libraries, town haffs and scholarships which he has so generously given, especially in Cheshire, the Northwich Division, of which he represents in Parliament. He urges that the young men of the day should be given a scientific education, and says that every penny he has in the world comes "from the application of science to commerce."
